Dear Family Member,

Your child has been taught to read a number of Tricky Words. Tricky Words are difficult to read and write because some parts of the word do not follow the letter-sound correspondences your child has been taught. These tricky parts are underlined with a gray line. Ask your child to cut out the word cards. Show the cards to your child and have your child read them. Extension: Read the words aloud and have your child write the words down. Please keep and use the cards for future practice.

For further consideration:

1. Does the student misread words in particular parts of the sentence? (e.g. the student always misreads the first word of each sentence or the last word of each sentence?) If so, note here: ________________________________

   a. The student may benefit from reading with deliberate finger pointing to each word.

2. Does the student read too slowly? ______ If so, is the student laboring over decoding or does the student need instruction in automaticity?

   a. If the student needs instruction in automaticity, you may consider using word cards displayed for one to two seconds, then ask student to identify the letter. This will help the student understand the depth of their knowledge and gain confidence.

   b. If the student is struggling to decode, consider using the Assessment and Remediation Guide to remediate specific letter-sound correspondences.
