Unit 2: Case Studies: “What Fools These Mortals Be”

In this second unit, students will read and finish the play while they continue to follow the theme of control in A Midsummer Night’s Dream. They continue to trace which characters wish to control or manipulate others, how they attempt to exercise this control, and whether or not they are successful. Students will study how Shakespeare drew upon Greek mythology for the play within the play as they study “Pyramus and Thisbe.” They will study how Shakespeare rendered the story new, and how the texts relate to the theme of control. In the two-part mid-unit assessment, students will first read another myth similar to “Pyramus and Thisbe”; they will then summarize the myth and analyze the narrative structure.

In the second part of the assessment, students will read a passage from A Midsummer Night’s Dream and analyze Shakespeare’s craft as an author in terms of word choice and structure. They will then compare this excerpt from the play with the story “Pyramus and Thisbe” as they engage in a deeper analysis of how the structure of each contributes to the meaning. For the end of unit assessment, students will write an argument essay in which they use the strongest evidence from the play to make a claim about whether Shakespeare makes the case that it is possible to control another person’s actions or not.

Guiding Questions And Big Ideas

- What motivates people to try to control one another’s actions?
- How do people try to control one another’s actions?
- What happens when people try to control one another’s actions?
- Is it possible for people to control one another’s actions?

- Authors use the structure of texts to create style and convey meaning.
- Authors use allusions to layer deeper meaning in the text.
Analyzing Narrative Structure and Author’s Craft
This two-part assessment centers on NYSP12 ELA CCLS RL.8.2, RL.8.3, RL.8.4, RL.8.5, RL.8.9, and L8.5a. In Part 1, students will first read a Swedish myth similar to “Pyramus and Thisbe” and summarize the myth. They will then analyze the narrative structure of the myth. In Part 2, students will read Egeus’s speech from the beginning of A Midsummer Night’s Dream and analyze Shakespeare’s word choice by using context clues to determine the meaning of specific words in the speech, as well as inferring figurative and connotative meanings. They will then compare this excerpt from the play with the story “Pyramus and Thisbe” as they engage in a deeper analysis of the ways in which Shakespeare may have drawn on patterns of events, character types, and themes in this myth, how he rendered this material new, and how the structure of each text differs and contributes to the meaning of both.

Argument Essay: Controlling Others in A Midsummer Night’s Dream
This assessment centers on NYSP12 ELA CCLS RI.8.2, W.8.1, W.8.1b, W.8.1c, W8.1d, W8.1e, W.9a, L.8.2, L.8.2a, and L.8.2b. Students will cite the strongest evidence from the play as they write an argument essay in which they use the strongest evidence from two characters in A Midsummer Night’s Dream to answer the following prompt: “In A Midsummer Night’s Dream, does Shakespeare make the case that it is possible to control another person’s actions, or not?” In addition, students will strengthen their arguments by acknowledging and distinguishing their claim from alternate or opposing claims.

Optional: Experts, Fieldwork, And Service

Experts:
- Consider inviting actors from a local theater group to perform some of Shakespeare's works and/or work with students so that students may perform excerpts of Shakespeare's works. Local actors and directors might also provide expertise on staging, stage directions, and the choices they make when interpreting a script for a performance.

Fieldwork:
- Consider having students attend a live production of A Midsummer Night's Dream and analyze the choices made by the actor and directors.

Service:
- Arrange for students to perform excerpts or the entire play for various audiences, including younger children, nursing homes, shelters, etc.

Optional: Extensions
- With the library media specialist, provide opportunities for students to research other myths that Shakespeare may have drawn upon in his works.
Independent Reading

This module introduces a more robust independent reading structure after students have finished reading A Midsummer Night’s Dream (i.e., partway through Unit 2). Consider scheduling a week after the Mid-Unit 2 assessment, or between Units 2 and 3, to launch independent reading. Alternatively, you could lengthen the time for Unit 3 and intersperse the independent reading lessons into the first part of the unit. See two separate stand-alone documents on EngageNY.org: The Importance of Increasing the Volume of Reading and Launching Independent Reading in Grades 6—8: Sample Plan, which together provide the rationale and practical guidance for a robust independent reading program. Once students have all learned how to select books and complete the reading log, it takes less class time. After the launch period, the independent reading routine takes about ½ class period per week, with an additional day near the end of a unit or module for students to review and share their books. Unit 3 includes time to maintain the independent reading routine (calendared into the lessons). But you may wish to review the independent reading materials now to give yourself time to gather texts and to make a launch plan that meets your students’ needs.
