Unit 2: Case Study: How Working Conditions Change: Chávez and the UFW

In this unit, which centers on informational text standards RI.7.2, RI.7.3, and RI.7.5, students will read and analyze a speech by César Chávez. In response to the difficult working and living conditions faced by agricultural workers, Chávez helped found the United Farm Workers in the 1960s. In 1984, Chávez gave his Commonwealth Club Address, which argues that the UFW has been and will continue to be a powerful institution that improves the lives of farmworkers and empowers the Latino community. This is primarily a reading unit, and it focuses on students’ ability to determine the central ideas of a text and analyze how they are developed, understand how people and events interact in that text, and consider how an author organizes a text so that each section of the text relates to the central claim. As students read the speech, they will add to a new anchor chart about how consumers, workers, government, and businesses (the focus of Unit 3) affect working conditions. They also will analyze how Chávez uses specific tools of rhetoric to develop his central claim and will discuss the structure of the speech. In the Mid-Unit 2 Assessment, students will answer selected-response questions for a section of Chávez’s speech that the class has not yet discussed. In the End of Unit 2 Assessment, they will apply their understanding of text structure to analyze a new speech by Chávez. Both assessments focus on RI.7.2, RI.7.3, and RI.7.5, but the mid-unit assessment focuses more on RI.7.2 and RI.7.3 while the end of unit assessment focuses more on RI.7.5. The lessons in this unit are adapted from lessons developed by Odell Education (see stand-alone documents on EngageNY.org).

Guiding Questions And Big Ideas

• How do working conditions change?
• What role do consumers, governments, business owners, and workers play in improving working conditions?
• How does a speaker develop and organize his central claim?
• Workers, the government, businesses, and consumers can all bring about change in working conditions.
• Closely reading and discussing an excerpt of a longer text helps to deepen your understanding of the text as a whole.

Mid-Unit 2 Assessment

Text-Dependent Questions about Theme: How Do Individuals Survive in Challenging Environments?
This assessment centers on NYSP12 ELA CCLS RL.7.1, RL.7.9, and RI.7.2. For this assessment, students will analyze how the author of A Long Walk to Water uses and elaborates on historical facts to convey her ideas about how people survive in South Sudan.

Alternate Mid-Unit 2 Assessment

For classes that have already read Chávez’s Commonwealth Club Address (as a part of the stand-alone Odell Education unit), an alternate Chávez speech is suggested for Unit 2: “Statement at Pacific Lutheran University,” March 1989. To create an alternate Mid-Unit 2 Assessment, examine the fully developed assessment in Lesson 5 (which focuses on the Commonwealth Club Address) and use this as a model to create a similar assessment based on a section of the alternate Chávez speech.

End of Unit 2 Assessment

Analyzing the Structure of Chávez’s “Wrath of Grapes” Speech
This assessment centers on standards NYS ELA RI.7.1, RI.7.2, RI.7.3, and RI.7.5, with an emphasis on RI.7.5. Students read “Wrath of Grapes,” another speech by Chávez (edited for length), and answer selected- and constructed-response questions about its central claim, how that claim is developed, and how each section of the speech relates to that central claim.

Content Connections

• This module is designed to address English Language Arts standards. However, the module intentionally incorporates Social Studies and science content that may align to additional teaching during other parts of the day. These intentional connections are described below.

Central Texts

2. OR (for teachers who have already taught this speech as a part of the separate Odell Education unit): César Chávez, “Statement at Pacific Lutheran University,” speech given in March 1989.

This unit is approximately 4 weeks or 20 sessions of instruction.

Optional: Experts, Fieldwork, And Service

- Experts
  - Invite a local union organizer to speak with your students about how unions work and how they affect working conditions.

- Fieldwork
  - For an online fieldwork experience, visit the website of the United Farm Workers at www.ufw.org.
  - If there are any food boycotts happening in your community, consider taking students to a store that carries this type of product to talk with the manager about the boycott and how that store in particular and the industry in general has decided to respond. For example, many stores are considering how to respond to consumer concerns about genetically modified organisms (GMOs), even though these are not federally regulated.

- Extensions
  - Consider partnering with the social studies teacher for a cross-disciplinary investigation of this time in history.
  - Consider partnering with the science teacher for an investigation of the impacts of different methods of agricultural production.
Preparation and Materials

Alternate central text: This unit is loosely based on a unit developed by Odell Education (available on EngageNY.org). If you have already used the Commonwealth Club Address and the related Odell Education lessons, you can adapt this unit to teach a different Chávez speech. “Statement at Pacific Lutheran University” (March 1989) could be easily adapted to address these standards and help students understand the role of workers, consumers, and governments in changing working conditions.

Multimedia and Supporting Texts

- This unit includes recommendations to build students’ background knowledge about César Chávez in Lesson 1. Reading part of a children’s book called Harvesting Hope: The Story of César Chávez, by Kathleen Krull, is the best way to do this; however, the lesson also lists alternate online resources and a PBS video, Fight in the Fields. Consider which resources will be best for you and plan how to use them.

Independent Reading

- This unit assumes that you have launched an independent reading program with your students. Often the homework assignment in this unit and in Unit 3 is reading independent reading books, and plans in both units include time in class to check in on independent reading. Consider scheduling a week between Units 1 and 2 to launch independent reading. Alternatively, you could lengthen the time for Unit 2 and intersperse the independent reading lessons into the first part of the unit. See two separate stand-alone documents on EngageNY.org: The Importance of Increasing the Volume of Reading and Launching Independent Reading in Grades 6–8: Sample Plan, which together provide the rationale and practical guidance for a robust independent reading program. Once students have all learned how to select books and complete the reading log, it takes less class time. After the launch period, the independent reading routine takes about ½ class period per week, with an additional day near the end of a unit or module for students to review and share their books. Unit 2 includes time to maintain the independent reading routine (calendared into the lessons) but does not set a particular routine. Various options are outlined in the Launching Independent Reading in Grades 6–8: Sample Plan; consider what will best meet the needs of your students and establish that routine in this unit.
